Fatal Railroad Accident.

CINCINNATI March 14—A man named Somers and a girl named Jeuguard were run over and the former instantly killed by a train on the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad, last night, near Zanesville They had been sitting on the track, talking

ST LOUIS March 15—A revolt in the Missouri Penitentiary at Jefferson City was discovered and frustrated yesterday without serious result

The Erie Railroad and its Managers

NEW YORK March 14—The Sun this morning has the following extraordinary paragraph:

"The change in the Erie Railroad brings very conspicuously before the world two homicides who are its authors—Daniel E Sickles and Edward Stokes But for the killing of Fisk by Stokes the agents of the foreign stockholders could never have got into the Erie building, for it is proved by recent events that Fisk was the real vital power of Erie It will strike everybody as a most extraordinary coincidence that the other principal actor besides Stokes Daniel E Sickles, is also a homicide Stokes killed Fisk and is yet to be tried for it Sickles killed Philip Barton Key, and was tried and acquitted on the ground of insanity Another coincidence is that both Fisk and Key were killed by being shot with derringer pistols Still another Stokes is defended by the distinguished criminal lawyer who cleared Sickles Sickles is our Minister to Spain and to an ordinary man to be at home leading a struggle to take a railway office in a foreign interest while drawing pay as our representative at a foreign court seems strange But nothing is strange to Dan Sickles The country is happy in the expectation of reform in Erie and Stokes' friends are happy in the hope that at no distant day while a Minister to some foreign court he may return home and seize some great railway"

WASHINGTON CITY

Miscellaneous News

WASHINGTON March 14—The Washington special has the following items The President has suspended the removal of District Attorney Bates till the result of the case now pending in the Supreme Court regarding Courts in Utah is known It is now believed that the decision of the Court will virtually declare that for a year under McKean no defendant has been brought into a Court legally formed

The Committee of Ways and Means have agreed to reduce the duty on steel from 1½ to 1 cent and on steel railway bars from 1 cent to ¾

T Painter and J E Caldwell, from Pennsylvania, start from here to morrow with six members of the Japanese Embassy comprising those charged especially with examining manufacturing establishments of the United States The party will first visit Philadelphia, then Pittsburg and other cities in the western part of the States They expect to occupy about two weeks in inspecting large works

Exciting Passage between Trumbull and Chandler.

CHICAGO March 14—The Evening Journal's Washington special has the following A sharp passage at arms between Trumbull and Chandler took place in the Senate to day growing out of a statement that the former had been employed illegally by Andy Johnson in the McArdle case Trumbull denied that he was employed by Johnson and read letters to show that he was retained by Secretary Stanton and Grant and that his fee was fixed by Stanton He intimates that the slander had been instigated by Chandler of Michigan The latter rose and in an excited manner denied any connection with it. He said he threw back the slimy slander upon its author, at the same time advancing toward Trumbull's seat in a menacing manner The Vice President called Chandler to order For a time there was considerable excitement in the Chamber, but it was soon over, however and the Senate took up the tariff bill when Sherman explained it and stated that it reduced the tariff $50 000 000.

Another anti-Grant Convention

A Herald Washington dispatch says an anti-Grant Convention is to be held at Parkersburg, West Virginia, on the 18th of April The movement is understood to be in the interest of Judge Chase A declaration of principles has been agreed upon by its organizers They designate the party name of the Democratic Republican Party

Mr Greeley in his paper to day says it was only when Grant turned his back on himself by removing whom he at first appointed to office from this State, and whom the Tribune approved, and filling their places with factions that trouble was created, and dissatisfaction expressed

AN AWFUL MYSTERY—FATHER AND DAUGHTER BURNED ALIVE—A SKELETON ENTOMBED IN A WALL NEARLY ONE HUNDRED YEARS—One cold night about New Year a cry of fire was raised in Mount Bethel a little town about seven miles from Plainfield over the Springfield Mountain in Somerset county New Jersey A building over one hundred years old was in flames It was occupied by a German farmer named Ernst He rushed from the burning building supposing that his family were safe He missed one of his daughters and ran back into the house to save her He had caught her in his arms and was making his way to the door when the floor gave way and both were burned to death Since then the ruins of the house have been removed The mansion was built in the old fashioned style with huge fire-places in two of the rooms the chimneys sloping toward each other and joining before reaching the roof Walled in the cavity between the two fire places a human skeleton in perfect preservation was discovered An old flint lock musket stood at its side and two rusty knives lay at its feet The musket is of the old British pattern It is supposed that the remains are those of a Tory soldier who met his death at the hands of the Colonists during the Revolution The oldest inhabitants are unable to explain this horrible mystery The remains of the father and daughter were also found in the ruins—New York Sun January 21st

CORRESPONDENCE

To the Editor of The Oregonian

SIR It affords me much pleasure to see that the Irish citizens of this coast as well as those throughout the Nation at large, but more especially those of our own State, have of late years, manifested their good sense and judgment in political matters by renouncing forever the misnomer called "time-honored principles of Democracy" This clap trap lost its vital force years ago with a large portion of our most respectable citizens, for in truth, there has been no such creed in practical existence in our own country at least, only in name, since the days of Old Hickory For, ever since his day that party has lived politically in our midst on what lawyers sometimes call a dead issue.

I am not surprised to see Irishmen, tutored by such profound giant adepts in political philosophy as Swift, Grattan and the immortal O'Connell vote the Democratic ticket on their first introduction to politics on our shores

But after they have lived here long enough to become thoroughly conversant with the works of the free and beneficent institutions of our country, I must confess that I am surprised to see them adhere to that party so long as they have done while at the same time they only receive in return a mite of the paltry crumbs from the political table of that once famous, but now, alas! prostituted and degenerate ring Though strange as it may appear to many, the Irish Democrats have truly been the jackals of the party on all occasions, to my own knowledge, for the last forty years or more

They have always been placed in the van by their wily American friends, and nobly have they stood the brunt of the battle, like the Spartans of old—first in every gap and breach, battling as they thought for Democratic faith and principles—while in truth, they have only been buffeting the winds in attempting to restore and maintain what their American friends have long since eschewed and forgotten—principles in politics

But, alas! how great was their chagrin when they discovered, after many years spent in bitter toil and vexatious brawlings over the debris of their political corpse, that there was nought left them save a very small remnant of a defunct creed In proof of which I need but refer to the two great citadels of that party—New York and San Francisco both of which are most conspicuously situated as great strategical points in the political field of our country These last famous bulwarks of the party have recently succumbed to the well directed fire of the masses of the people, and that, too from the same cause as the rest of their strongholds—profligacy and wretched misconduct in office

Thus have they finally surrendered fortress after fortress, till the last stronghold of the enemies of justice has been wrenched from them by the overwhelming majorities of the masses Having thus been most shamefully demolished in every quarter this defunct party has resolved in future to retire from public cares and offices of great emoluments, trust and responsibility, and this, too at the earnest request of the great majorities of an infuriated people Long may they enjoy the shades of their oblivion A

Lions and Lion Tamers

We have received from Mr Fairgrieve, the proprietor of Wombwell's menagerie, a letter on the subject of lion taming, in which referring to the subject of the late fatal attack upon Macarte, the lion tamer in Manders's menagerie, he endeavors to show that, "under certain conditions, and with careful management, there is no more danger in such exhibitions than in any other public entertainment of the present day" In the last category, he chiefly refers to the dangerous performances of acrobats He declares that neither whips nor branding irons are ever used in his establishment nor does he allow hot irons to be in readiness during the performance in case of accidents and he adds that Mr Manders never allowed them during his lifetime Under certain conditions Mr Fairgrieve maintains that the performance of lion-tamers may be considered as safe as the exhibition of performing dogs and monkeys, and he adds—

"The truth is that during a period of forty years I have only heard of two deaths arising from these exhibitions—the one being the death of the lion queen at Chatham in the year 1870 and the other the death of Macarte, the other day Now, the last of these deaths has been accounted for, and I am in a position to account for the first, as it occurred in the late Mr Wombwell's menagerie The menagerie was at Chatham, standing on Government property under the control of the garrison; and one day, after the performances were over, and the meat had been brought out for the feeding of the animals some of the officers of the barracks entered the menagerie and requested, as a particular favor that the lion queen would enter the dens again To oblige them she did so, and one of the tigers showed some ill temper, and in her excitement the lion queen fell to the ground and the tiger sprang upon her The tiger, however, scarcely grazed her skin, and her death, which was instantaneous, was caused almost entirely by fright I may here mention, as a curious fact in natural history, that a full-grown lion, named 'Royal George' which happened to be in the same den when the death happened, took the sad event so much at heart, that it began to pine away and hang down its head, and died soon after his queen, to whom he was greatly attached It will thus be seen that the only deaths that have occurred in this country have been caused by extra performances after the animals had completed their day's work, and just before feeding and out of a long list of lion tamers including such men as Van Amburgh Carter, Crockett Batty, Cooper, Macomo and Lorenzo besides a host of minor names whose exhibitions three or four times a day have extended over a period of forty years only two have met with their death in the course of their performances

American Securities in Europe—Northern Pacific Bonds

The London correspondent of the New York Tribune—George W Smalley—writes that business circles in England are depressed by anticipations of probable trouble growing out of the hitch in the settlement of the Alabama claims English and American securities have declined It would appear that the prospects of the Northern Pacific loan are somewhat involved

One fact, moreover, cannot be too [illegible] stated All the American business and American enterprise which have either their headquarters or their agencies in London are at a complete standstill. A month ago they were in the full tide of activity, and there was a flow of British capital to America, where much had gone before it, to build our railways, and work our mines, and [illegible] States I need not remind you with what brilliant success Messrs Jay Cooke, McCulloch & Co had engineered our Funded Loan, and the Northern Pacific Loan, and what they hoped to do in conjunction with the Rothschilds, with their gigantic joint offer to take six hundred millions of the American securities There were scores of American applications of every sort in London for capital. Not only Jay Cooke, McCulloch & Co., but others of the American financial houses newly established in London, were doing a prosperous business and daily extending their connections The disagreement about the treaty has postponed everything. More than one banker has said to me that the losses already incurred on account of this difficulty far exceed anything we shall ever get or hope to get, on account of the Alabama claims. This is no argument for wavering any of them, but I repeat it as showing the practical way in which some business men strike a balance-sheet in trade and diplomacy.

Minister Marsh and the Italian Government

From Washington, March 9th, we have this dispatch It is necessary as an explanation of a long telegram that appeared in our regular dispatches some days ago

The friends of Minister Marsh have been looking into the grounds of complaint against him on account of his despatch containing severe reflections against the Italian Government It now appears that Mr Marsh took special precautions to have what he had written kept a secret, except for those having the closest confidence of the State Department, and to attain this end he transmitted his entire despatch in the cypher of the Department After it had been translated for the Secretary's perusal, it was allowed by some unexplained carelessness to find its way into letters copied for publication in the annual report of correspondence sent to Congress

Marsh's friends claim that, since he was only discharging his plain duty in acquainting the Secretary with the real condition of affairs, and as that, on his part, every possible precaution was taken to prevent the contents of the dispatch from becoming publicly known, that if the Italian Government insists upon his recall, it will be only just to give him another mission of equal rank, and are suggesting that of Spain.

At a dinner given at Washington a few days ago by the Territorial Delegates to the President, Vice President and Speaker Blaine, one of the speakers argued that Delegates ought to have votes on subjects affecting their Territories, while another favored a [illegible] tion that had been made [illegible], to give the inhabitants, if of sufficient [illegible], up to the requirements of the [illegible] representation so as to secure votes in Congress, the arguments being [illegible] that a long time must elapse before [illegible] of the Territories will have a sufficiency of population to be admitted as a State in the Union Others said that they should, according to the fundamental principles of free government have proper representation, which includes voting in Congress.

Statements Made Good

To our averment that the last Legislature of Oregon authorized the school lands of the State to be plundered to the extent of $200 000 for the benefit of a corporation composed mainly of leading Democratic politicians the Herald attempts to make answer thus

> Here is a broad assertion which we challenge our neighbor to make good We pronounce it emphatically untrue and an unworthy attempt to misinform and mislead the public Show your authority to make the statement good or be content to rest under the accusation which we distinctly make

It is perhaps the misfortune rather than the fault, of the editor of the Herald that he knows little of Oregon affairs He has been but a few months in the State, and in all probability has but little knowledge of what was done by the Legislature before he came For this reason he should be less positive and dogmatic when speaking of these things

We are challenged to make good a statement which has already been made good a hundred times It was made good in the Legislature by those who opposed the bill, and Democratic as well as Republican influence there opposed it It was made good by that portion of the press of the State which was not under Democratic ring domination Here are the facts

The people of Oregon by their deliberate and solemn act, set apart for the common school fund the 500 000 acre grant This act was made a part of the State Constitution and as such possessed the highest and most solemn sanctions At the last session of the Legislature a corporation composed mainly of the leading Democratic politicians appeared and demanded a subsidy of $200 000 out of the proceeds of this grant The subsidy was awarded to them And that the transaction might be wanting in no feature of wrong, a preference of $75,000 was given to this corporation over the bid of another company who stood ready to engage for the performance of the work required. The people of Oregon know these facts well, however ignorant the editor of the Herald may be of them. We have no wish to retort upon our neighbor in his own language and style for that would be rather unseemly but we would commend to him a study of the statutes of Oregon and the proceedings of the Legislative Assembly at its last session

Nobody opposes the enterprise for which the school fund was thus violated. The attempt to array people in opposition to it, because they opposed the attack on the school fund and because they thought $75,000 a sum worth saving, is altogether "too thin

Truth and Common Sense

[illegible] gladiatorial displays in the Senate of the United States are spoken of by a Washington correspondent of the New York Tribune as "a boys' debate" This correspondent, who has more than once watched the boilings of the Senatorial cauldron at sessions just preceding Presidential elections says.

> There is nothing new and so far as I can see nothing very threatening in the situation No great party can be for a great length of time entirely harmonious Many men get up near to the front that they think they are entitled to the lead and have a good deal of complaint if it is not given to them We have had lots of experience of this sort in our own political history, and the world has always been full of it This is what is the matter now Prominent men fall into quarrels and long talks and idle debates are the consequence. It is a phase of politics partaking quite too much of the character of personal gossip and scandal to be at all agreeable to the immortal mind It is the scum and rubbish of public life The more sluggish the current the more this rubbish accumulates The everlasting dissatisfactions that political life breeds are as natural as mushrooms after a shower The only remedy is to cultivate the virtues of self denial and unselfishness But these are not the virtues that most [illegible] the pushing men who swarm in public life.

Of the speeches made in the Senate with a view of "breaking down" Gen Grant the New York Herald says

> This whole discussion has been virtually the overture to the opening Presidential drama—the overture to the political opera that will charm or vex us during the summer We have felt impatient with the discussion It has had no redeeming quality except earnestness The amount of [illegible] and spite and innuendo and selfishness it has shown in our public men cannot but make a painful impression upon the country, for, whether we be Democrats or Republicans, we certainly are Americans, proud of our country and our Senate, and it is no comfort to us to look back upon a debate which no American can read without sorrow Mr. Senator Sumner is the greatest [illegible] in this debate He was known pre eminently as the Senator, and, like Cato, he was the [illegible] of cold justice This was certainly an enviable fame, and it belonged to Mr Sumner until he threw it away in this debate

Severe censure is passed upon the course of Trumbull, Fenton, and others Speaking particularly of Mr Trumbull, the Herald says

> He is a politician who followed in the traces of the Republican party until the incense bearers tempted him off with hopes of the Presidency A politician who reforms at sixty and publishes himself as a "statesman" may excite our curiosity, but scarcely our enthusiasm These are the demagogues and conspirators who have held the [illegible] at their mercy for three weeks delaying public business, spending the people's money, and bringing the good name and good faith of the nation into disrepute, merely to defeat General Grant. Their allies are found in disappointed [illegible] like Greeley who abandons a tariff man like Grant to aid in the nomination and election of a free-trader, or like Fenton, who has been squealing with ears high in air ever since he and his litter were turned out of the troughs of the Custom House, or like three or four pretentious newspapers in the East and West, who advertise their obstinacy for independence and pro[illegible]— that no virtue remains in journalism but what they happily possess that they alone are unsullied and unbought that, thanks be to God, like the Pharisee of old they are not as other journals are! We really do not know whether the feeling excited by this comedy of scandal and ambition is one of amusement or contempt. We are amused when we see these strollers from the Republican party establish a side show, and advertise themselves as real, new patriots, with gorgeous costumes and machinery and [illegible]rations, and that their play is the only legitimate drama, while the performance at Philadelphia is sensational and unworthy But we can not refrain from our contempt when we see the Senate of the United States surrendered to the intrigues of politicians who have no grievance against Grant that does not arise from disappointed ambition
> Behind these men there is a public opinion which is as true to Grant as it was true to Jackson when Calhoun and Clay and Webster thundered at him in the Senate The people stood by Jackson against the politicians, and he triumphed The people are standing by Grant, and we are profoundly convinced that he will have a triumph as conspicuous and splendid as was awarded to the hero New Orleans

It turns out after all that Mr Greeley quarreled with President Grant because he could not control him in the matter of appointments to office See Mr Greeley's confession in the telegraphic dispatches of to day

Republican triumphs this spring will certainly confirm the Democratic party in the 'passive policy' and make them bid more loudly than ever for a coalition with sorehead Republicans

The struggle for the Democratic nomination for Sheriff in Linn county has narrowed down to 37 aspirants

SHORT PARAGRAPHS

Washington correspondence (Feb 26) of the Boston Advertiser gives this Secretary Boutwell stated to day that the order modifying and reconstructing the general order system in New York will be officially promulgated to morrow The business will be distributed among a greater number of warehouses affording all the necessary facilities to merchants and importers and the rates of storage and cartage considerably reduced The new system is the result of the joint labors of Secretary Boutwell and Collector Arthur

A story is told of Mr Trumbull which may illustrate the reasons for the present party recalcitrancy of that and other Senators When General Belknap's name was gazetted as Secretary of War the Illinois Senator standing in a group of gentlemen asked, in a tone of deprecation "Who is this Belknap I never heard of him An Iowan present spoke of him as a distinguished soldier and young man of high character but the Senator impatiently repeated I never heard of him I should think there were scores of men to honor without taking unknown ones

An ingenious Georgian has invented a patent rail splitter by which an immense pine log can be riven in a very brief time A small iron cylinder or iron tube about half an inch in diameter and six inches long in two equal segments fitting closely together is inserted into an orifice made with a common augur in the center of the log This is filled with powder by means of a slender tube surmounted with a funnel, the charge amounting to an ordinary musket load A fuse is then inserted and fired and the toughest log is split like an acorn The Georgians regard it as a grand labor saving invention in these days when the laboring classes of the South have their time almost wholly engrossed by politics

There is a proposition before the House of Representatives to pay the College of William and Mary $65 000 for buildings burned during the war The antiquity of the college and its venerable and interesting associations made an impression on the committee who had the subject in charge, as they recommended and have eloquently advocated the payment But on the other hand there are claims to the amount of hundreds of millions of dollars, of a similar character, which if this one were admitted would pour in at the open door It is also claimed that the college was an early and persistent sinner in the rebellion—General Ewell, then and now its President leaving it at the outset to enlist under the rebel banner and the professors and students taking their places in rank and file Of course, under these circumstances, the college was closed and students and faculty found that rebellion was something more serious than the recreation of a holiday The House does not seem disposed, under the circumstances to pay the money

POLITICAL NOTES

The question which our contemporaries are asking is Who is James Black of Pennsylvania the candidate of the Prohibition party? Who is he?

Eastern papers generally said before the New Hampshire election that the result would be construed almost exclusively as either approving in the main or else condemning President Grant's Administration

Something like two hundred thousand copies of the recent speeches of Messrs Sumner, Schurz Trumbull and other 'recalcitrants' were sent into New Hampshire They were folded and carried through the mails at Government expense

Says the New York Times The last Democratic Administration created a deficiency in every year of its term and after raising a debt of sixty five millions went out in a rush of robberies peculations and embezzlements Will the people be misled by a few ambitious demagogues to again trust this party with the Government on its pretense that it is the party of reform? Will Messrs Trumbull and Sumner dare to advise the people to do so

Says the New York Herald We find in our Southern exchanges a demand upon the Northern Democracy to show their hands They ask What is the Democratic National Executive doing? What are they waiting for when the Republicans are electing delegates to their Convention and a prominent name is already announced as an anti Administration candidate for the Presidency ? The Southern Democracy desire to hear the Democratic National Committee

Mr Sumner when he was preparing to let off his resolution in regard to the sale of Government arms said to his colleague that it would use up Gen Grant that nobody will speak of him as a candidate in ten days time ' But he seems to have made one of his usual miscalculations On the heels of his resolution the Republicans of Kansas Indiana Missouri and the District of Columbia have indorsed Gen Grant in the most emphatic terms and the New Hampshire election has gone for him

The St Louis Democrat has the following questions and answers

Ques Who went to Cleveland in 1864 to beat Lincoln ?

Ans B Gratz Brown Emil Preetorius Father Muench & Co

Ques Who are going to Cincinnati in 1872 to beat Grant ?

Ans B Gratz Brown, Emil Preetorius, Father Muench & Co

Ques Who will be squelched in 1872 as they were in 1864 ?

Ans The same set of dickering bummers

THE THIRD LECTURE OF THE COURSE WILL be delivered by REV THOS CONDON, on Tuesday Evening, March 19th, 1872, at 7½ o'clock

SUBJECT— The relations of our Christian Theology to Natural Science

Exactly how MR CONDON will treat this subject we are not informed Two volumes have been open before him—from one as a Christian minister he has preached the Gospel from the other he has exhibited some of the wonders of Creation He delights to read both and neither in the pulpit nor in the lecture room does he array the teachings of one against the other The God of Nature is the God of the Bible. He who creates by His power, redeems by His grace. There is no conflict between Natural Science and Christian Doctrine but rather an intimate relation binding them together at the feet of the Master To the thoughtful mind the theme is deeply interesting It would be an unusual occurrence if Mr Condon should not be greeted with a large audience

VANCOUVER AND THE PLANK ROAD —In an article on this topic the Northwestern Home, published at Vancouver presents the following suggestions, showing the advantage that such a road would be to Portland "Let us see how much business there would be over a good road between Portland and Vancouver and if we should in the eye of our reader, exaggerate the estimate, let our friends correct There are in Clarke county about 3,500 inhabitants, of which 1 500 live in Vancouver and its immediate neighborhood of ten miles, not counting the strength of the U S Military Post, which soon will be over 300 men What they need for the farm shop, and house is chiefly purchased, either wholesale or retail in Portland, but little coming from San Francisco or the East, direct A few of our dealers are considering the propriety of chartering a schooner and buying their goods in San Francisco where their credit is just as good as in Portland If such is once inaugurated, adieu to trading any more with Portland business houses Now, our 1,500 [illegible] use and consume $200 worth each in average per year, amounting to a cash customer of $300,000 who leaves a clean cash profit of $50,000 to Portland's merchants, which must [illegible] increase if a good road is established. Some of the articles bought in Portland, would be brought here over such a road while the greater portion would come by way of steamer, the established custom Our 1 500 persons go to Portland on an average, say ten times a year, some on foot, some on horseback or in wagons, which travel both ways would, at 12½ cents for [illegible] come to $3 000 for the support of a [illegible], not speaking of the increase in travel [illegible] that live in the Garrison, outside of [illegible] formerly mentioned, and outside of [illegible] city. Much more could be said in support [illegible] argument Friends of our idea, take [illegible] pencil and cipher this out The [illegible] not to be laughed at Figures never lie, [illegible] will.

[illegible] NEAR ASTORIA —The Herald of this [illegible] contains the following 'A gentleman who arrived last evening from Astoria informs us that an Indian known by the name of Johnson was killed near that place, a few days ago, by a man named Condit The Indian was drunk at the time, and had taken a notion into his head that matters were not going to suit him, and in order to remedy this he immediately commenced [illegible] by beating a woman over the head with a club. Not satisfied with this, he made an attack on a couple of unarmed Indians, and would doubtless have finished them had not Condit, learning what was going on, arrived in the [illegible] time to prevent what looked like a double [illegible]. His appearance on the ground so exasperated Johnson that he turned on him, and, [illegible] murder written on his countenance, attacked [illegible] with a heavy club which he held in his hand. Warding off a blow aimed at him by [illegible], Condit grasped a rifle and dealt his [illegible] a terrible blow over the left eye, which [illegible] him to the earth On examination John[illegible] found to have received a mortal wound, [illegible] he died in a few hours Condit was taken into custody, but we are informed that the [illegible] is that he did perfectly right De[illegible] was considered a bad Indian.

BUSY SCENES.—Yesterday, we dare say, was [illegible] the busiest days ever witnessed in Portland. The steamship Ajax brought (as per list of [illegible] and consignees in the commercial column) [illegible] largest, if not the largest, cargoes of [illegible] dry goods, groceries, etc , ever brought to this city at one time, and every one in the [illegible] was busy receiving and storing [illegible] goods. The large majority arriving [illegible] overland go dry, principally clothing [illegible] dry goods, causing an inquiry for storage from our leading dry goods houses. The [illegible] T. C [illegible]y's dock presented a lively [illegible] owing to the rapidity with which the [illegible] of the Ajax was discharged and loaded on [illegible] and trucks and taken to consignees.

ARRIVAL OF THE AJAX —The N. A REMARKABLE CURE OF PALSY

WM BURDEN, A STOCK RAISER OF WILLOW CREEK WASCO COUNTY, OREGON LOST THE USE OF HIS LEFT ARM BY PALSY, WAS CURED IN TEN MINUTES BY DR. ABORN COR NER THIRD AND MORRISON STREETS, PORTLAND

To the Afflicted:—I wish to state that I lost the use of my left arm from my shoulder to the end of my fingers by a stroke of palsy I could not raise my hand or arm from my side and was fearful that there was no cure for me My friends at the Dalles advised me to visit Portland and place myself under the care of Dr Aborn I arrived in Portland last evening by the Dalles boat, and immediately called at Dr Aborn s office and made my case known The Doctor commenced treatment at once, and in ten minutes time to my great surprise and joy, he performed a complete cure so that I now have the use of my arm, hand and fingers, and can raise my arm up over my head with as much ease as I can raise my right arm. This certainly is a very remarkable cure, and in my estimation speaks volumes to the skill of Dr Aborn I am stopping at the American Exchange Hotel, and will leave on the boat to-morrow for home I am a stock raiser and reside at Willow creek, Wasco county, Oregon, eighty miles south of the Dalles

The Fashions

From Harper's Bazar

SPRING [illegible]

Street suits made in Berlin are the first [illegible] portations for spring The fabrics [illegible] goods of [illegible] spring gray and lavender shades soft flexible woolen stuffs [illegible] of fawn color or gray with white and a new wiry pongee mixture of linen and wool in pale nankeen and darker bouff tints The suits consist of skirt overskirt waist and double cape or else a skirt and polonaise with talma cape

CAPES

Capes will be the fashionable wrap The prettiest is the double cape or [illegible] sacque with a round cape This is similar to the garment worn at present but is shorter and is improved by slashing the back and side seams of the sacque to make room for a full tournure The cape falls half way between the elbow and wrist and is a round talma with short darts on the shoulders and a seam down the middle of the back which is left open below one third its length

UPPER SKIRTS

Upper skirts do not show much change in shape They are still long, with apron fronts are draped high on the sides and hang straight behind They are fuller than formerly, having two straight back breadths two broad side gores and a wide apron front slightly sloped on the sides The first side gore is made very long and is sewed with many gathers to the second side seam which is shorter

POLONAISES WITH CAPES

The polonaises are of medium length and simple shape There are darts in front, the fullness of the skirt behind is held to the waist in great box plaits and the belt has a postillion attached A single talma cape belongs to these, or else a mantle that has a double cape behind and resembles a vest in front

[From the Courier's Street, Saloon and Shop]

VARIETIES

The standing ruff of white muslin has often more than one failure won the esteem of the fashionable world The favorite ruff which is not very wide, shows a variety of styles In some the muslin is edged with footing and laid in with wide box plaits which touch each other In others the ruffle is trimmed with Italian Valenciennes and the distance between the box plaits measures the same as the width of the plait Others show a double ruffle, the under one being a little more than the width of the lace above the upper

The fancy continues for

which make a pretty addition to the house toilet. These scarfs are sometimes lined with white lace, the edge being [illegible] with blond This style of scarf is pretty when worn over the black silk dress, but for colored silks the black lace with the white is preferable show broad stripes of harmonizing or contrasting colors The silk which is fine and soft forms a very stylish knot or bow, fine [illegible] ties are of solid colors, pale blue, pink or ecru being the favorite shades These are edged with a heavy tassel fringe While silk ties are also among the fashionable varieties.

[illegible] ELEGANT ROBES DE CHAMBRE

for gentlemen are made of brocade silk lined with plain silk of some quiet color, which is quilted throughout, the garment is bordered and trimmed with the silk which forms the lining Other handsome robes are of plain cashmere, [illegible] and trimmed with blue, green, or purple silk

continue in favor for ornamenting the hair for home toilette They are sometimes accompanied by leaves of mother of pearl or gold butterflies, or some pretty ornament

Petroleum and Spirits of Turpentine

EXPERIMENTS AS TO THE COMBUSTION OF PETROLEUM AND SPIRITS OF TURPENTINE

The following article, translated from a [illegible] an journal of 11th ult relates to a matter of interest to merchants shipowners and underwriters, the facts evolved, indeed, being of importance to the public generally —

"This morning a series of experiments was conducted by Mr Aug Korff at his manufacturing establishment, in the presence of a number of fire insurance agents police commissioners, fire commissioner, fire marshal and others, for the purpose of testing Crude and Refined Petroleum, as to its susceptibility to take fire, its condition during combustion, in comparison with other ethereal oils, and finally to determine the degree of difficulty that would be required in extinguishing it

"To this end, to commence the experiments, a quantity of American Crude Petroleum was placed in an open iron vessel, and gradually heated to a temperature of 78 degrees Reaumur (208 deg. Fahrenheit)

"It was shown that at 25 to 30 degrees (90-100 deg. Fahrenheit,) it commenced to develop gas, at 35 degrees (112 deg Fahrenheit,) it began to boil, and finally ignited at 78 degrees (208 deg. Fahrenheit) Pouring on an equal portion of water, and later a great quantity, produced no subduing effect. But with a strong stream of water very little trouble was required in quenching the burning mass, within a comparatively short time

"Refined Petroleum, treated in the same manner, produced gas at 30 degrees (100 deg Fahrenheit,) bubbled at 42 degrees (128 deg Fahrenheit,) and being heated to 80 degrees (232 deg Fahrenheit) caught fire During the experiment of quenching the flames, a more active development of gas and a greater resisting power was shown However, in this case also, but little difficulty was experienced in placing the flames under the flames instead of a stream of water within a comparatively short space of time

"In this respect Spirits of Turpentine, which, in its turn, was next experimented with, proved itself more obstinate It commenced to evaporate at 15 degrees (66 deg Fahrenheit,) boiled soon afterwards and ignited when the temperature hardly reached 50 degrees (145 deg. Fahrenheit) The quantity of gas produced was enormous it [illegible] in the form of heavy carbon laden vapors which readily ignited from the flames of the fuel The burning Turpentine offered a strong resistance to the stream of water, to which it finally succumbed after a remarkably long application

"The experiments being completed greater quantities of the products already named—to the amount of one hundred pounds of each—were placed in a well made barrel, and being laid on a pile of burning wood, the following result was arrived at

"The barrel filled with American Crude Petroleum was exposed to the fire twenty five minutes before the head yielded and the oil flowed into the flames During this time the barrel was at intervals removed from the fire three times, and the flames were extinguished without the slightest difficulty No explosion occurred The oil flowed quietly and regularly from the charred barrel to the fire beneath, and the entire quantity could easily be extinguished with five to six times as much water

With Refined Petroleum the result was much the same only that in this case there was greater intensity of flame and more active combustion

"In the case of the Refined, as well as the Crude Petroleum the combustion was less considerable than that developed at the close of these experiments by the ignited barrel containing one hundred pounds of Spirits of Turpentine The smoke produced thereby rose in dense clouds to the hight of the houses [illegible] and not only darkened the air but continued to burn readily Seven or eight times the quantity of water was necessary to control the strong resistance offered by the fire

"The result of these experiments may be summed up as follows —That Petroleum and especially in its crude state, is not as susceptible to fire as is generally supposed at all events, its danger cannot be considered greater than that of many other resins and oils which, as was demonstrated to-day in the experiments with Spirits of Turpentine have even a greater tendency to combustion than the so calumniated American illuminator

[illegible]

[illegible] a [illegible] was ruling in New York and Boston with [illegible] paper dull and [illegible] rates [illegible] The stringency is reported to have been brought about [illegible] manipulating the market to produce lower rates for Stocks but at latest [illegible] without success although the [illegible] was reported to be operating [illegible] early in stocks [illegible] to be [illegible] in each Ma[illegible] After [illegible] glance at our New York commercial exchanges just to hand we are inclined to think that Gold will rule still higher [illegible] the balance of trade appears to be largely against us The Assistant Treasurer [illegible] the following coin payments March [illegible] at New York

The steamship Oriflamme is expected to leave San Francisco bound up either Monday or Tuesday next

The steamship [illegible] from San Francisco will be due here on Tuesday or Wednesday

The bark Almatia under tow of the Okanagon arrived this evening

The bark Jeral under tow of the tug Mer[illegible] arrived this evening

Produce Market.

WHEAT—Mail advices received by the Ajax confirm telegraphic advices of the general dullness in the market By private advices we learn that stock is greatly reduced but notwithstanding which prices had not improved. The Advance was chartered at £2 5s to load for Cork We hear of small sales every day or two to our market to millers of extra choice milling at extreme rates $1 82½ ₩ cental

FLOUR—The steamship California could not take all offering but will proceed to the Sound and Victoria and return immediately for balance The local [illegible] at unchanged rates

POTATOES—The Almatia just in has several hundred sacks of California, but unless better than the general average will meet with slow sale The California will bring all offering on the Sound which it is thought will be about 2,000 sacks Sound Potatoes being of super or quality meet with a quick market at extreme rates Market for choice ruled firm to-day at 1¼@1[illegible] ₩ lb

FEED—Prices are ruling dull under free receipts We quote Bran at $22 50 ₩ ton Middlings, Chops etc $32 50@35 ₩ ton

EGGS—Market was cleaned at an early hour We hear of sales made at 23c ₩ dozen, though we cannot quote market over 22c ₩ doz.

POULTRY—We note an increased inquiry for Hens and Roosters with offers of $5 50 ₩ dozen made

WOOL—The United States Economist, of February 17 has the following upon the condition of the Wool market

Nothing but a stoppage of machinery for the next sixty days will now afford any relief to the manufacturers They may go on till they bid Wool up to 10s [illegible] lb, but this will form no adequate no permanent relief The state of the foreign Wool market is no better than the domestic All foreign Wools are in very light stock and prices are rapidly advancing Cape Wools have risen to 60c ₩ lb All Wool from the Cape and Australia afloat for this country would not keep one mill in operation for one month and we must wait 30 or 60 days for this to get it in a dirty greasy state at our docks. If the American ports were thrown open to free trade to morrow we could not obtain enough Wool to keep our mills in full operation for the next five months because England Germany and France are outbidding us in the markets of the world

DRIED APPLES—The New York Bulletin reports considerable movement on account of Chicago, with prices showing an improvement on current rates ruling during the winter

General Merchandise.

COFFEE—Messrs. C Risley & Co's New York circular reports the Coffee market as follows "The continued lifelessness in the Rio Coffee market is still the only prevailing feature but with all the dullness there is very little anxiety manifested on the part of the principal holders There is much discussion however, as to the cause effect, and prospect It is generally conceded that the position is as favorable as can be, but time will develope the matter one way or the other Little can be said in regard to the duty question the probable result no one can tell not even those specially interested

BOOTS AND SHOES—The Boston Shipping List of March 2d says The sales so far this season have been considerably larger than last year and the only unsatisfactory feature is the small margin of profit. The jobbers are now quite busy as most of the buyers here are Western retailers who are taking about the same quantities as last year A few Southern wholesalers have made their appearance and they have been buying liberally in expectation of a good trade in their section The Southern staple has brought high prices and the people there are now in a better condition financially than at any time since the war In Lynn and other manufacturing towns business is lively Some of the Lynn shops have produced this season, for the first time Shoes made from Cottonades such as are used for cheap clothing They are principally for men and boys' wear and make a good looking cool and cheap Shoe for summer use "

NAILS—The public dispatches announce an advance by Eastern manufacturers of 25c ₩ keg

DRY GOODS CLOTHING, ETC —From the Boston Shipping List of March 2d we clip the following "In Dry Goods there continues to be considerable activity and the Cotton mills are taxed to their utmost productive capacity to supply the demand Stocks of Domestics have not been so small for years and a very prosperous season is anticipated Woolen fabrics are not in a satisfactory condition owing to the very high cost of Wool compared with the low prices realized for goods. But the spring season is never a good time to sell Woolen manufactures and before the clothiers are in the market for their winter stock we look for a decided improvement. The Clothing trade is steadily increasing and promises to turn out well The Clothing business has been well worked up the past year or two, and the turn that Cloths are likely to take during the coming six months will place Clothing manufacturers in a favorable position They have been buying very largely of heavy goods and next autumn will be ready to sell ready made stock at a comparatively low rate

TURPENTINE—Under advices of an advance in San Francisco holders have advanced rates for Eastern to $1 25 ₩ gallon.

WHITE LEAD—Holders advanced rates this morning from ¼c to 1c ₩ lb

DRUGS ETC —New York advice to March 2d continues to advise us of higher prices ruling in all lines, particularly Chemicals For all kinds of Chemicals the market was excited and advancing Under telegraphic advices of short crop of Opium and advancing market abroad prices were higher with tendency still upward. Alcohol was in steady demand at upward rates

PETROLEUM—Latest Eastern dates to hand state that the market is very much excited owing to a large advance in freights from the Oil regions. It seems that a ring has been formed in the West, composed of railroad officials and large refiners in Pittsburg and Cleveland whose object is to force all the Crude Oil to the aforesaid two cities and thus give them the control of the whole Refined Petroleum trade of the country Freights to Boston on Crude were advanced about $1 20 ₩ bbl and on Refined about $1 but a large drawback from these rates is allowed to those in the combination the arrangement, if carried out as proposed will seriously interfere with the refiners of Boston and those at the Oil regions. Prices have advanced from 2@3c ₩ gal and the market closed March 1st very unsettled
